free zoom anger management classes: Inglorious Pedagogy Keren Dali, Kim M. Thompson, 2023-04-25 Topics and issues in library and information science education pedagogy are commonly discussed in panels, conferences, peer-reviewed articles, professional articles, and dedicated monographs. However, in this abundance of education-oriented discussions, there are several noticeable gaps and omissions. Not always do education-oriented publications involve theoretical grounding that could make them stronger in argumentation and more generalizable to other contexts. Addressing these gaps, the book stands to strengthen the less covered areas of library and information science (LIS) pedagogical thought; it enriches a theoretical foundation of pedagogical discourse and broadens its scope. This volume brings together a collection of essays from LIS educators from around the world who delve into difficult, unpopular, and uncommonly discussed topics—the inglorious pedagogy, as we call it—based on their practice and scholarship. Presenting perspectives from Australia, Canada, China, New Zealand, the United Kingdom, and the United States, each chapter is a case study, rooted not only in the author's experience but also in a solid theoretical or analytical framework that helps the reader make sense of the situations, behaviors, impact, and human emotions involved in each. The collective thought woven in the book chapters leads the reader through the milestones of (in)glorious pedagogy to a better understanding of the potentially transformative nature and wasted opportunities of graduate LIS education and higher education in general.

Most programs in existence are based on cognitive approaches, which although effective, require much effort and persistence and a longer period of time to exercise control over the emotion of anger. The foundations of the program in this book are relaxation, meditation, and accelerative learning skills. These techniques have been proven to facilitate change with less effort and struggle because they work at the subconscious level. Change and transformation occur more naturally and organically by removing the conscious thinking that change is difficult to achieve and that it requires hard work.

free zoom anger management classes: Anger Dynamics Facilitator Guide Donald Pratt, Paul Pratt, 2021-03 This faith-based course book combines Christian ethics and best practices in dealing with anger issues through small-group discussion. It is easy use because practical applications come from the real-life situations of the participants themselves. A few paragraphs of content is followed with pertinent thought-provoking questions that allow participants to gain insights from each other as well as from the content material. They learn to share and benefit from the experiences and thoughts of their peers. They discover that their situations are not unique, that anger is complex, and find much better ways of handling difficult situations. The course is a plus for Christians who want to become better Christians at the same time that they make life better for themselves and those around them. There are nine lessons appropriate for up to two hours of productive discussion. Each stand-alone lesson emphasizes a different aspect while at the same time progressing from understanding personal issues to understanding how this can lead to leadership in helping others with theirs. The text is easy to read and avoids technical terms. Lesson 1 addresses What is Anger and shows the many aspects and dimensions of angry reactions. Anger is universally applicable to everyone unless we are emotionally dead. That is why it is called anger management class and not an anger elimination. Some anger may even be beneficial if it leads to productive living. Lesson 2 is Whose Anger is it Anyway? Lesson 3 addresses How to approach Anger. Lesson 4 is Settling Differences Peacefully. Lesson 5 focuses on Strategies to Reduce Stress. Lesson 6 provides Biblical Insights. Lesson 7 shows how anger management will help you in Finding Your Voice. Lesson 8 explains Living with Peaceful Character. Lesson 9 is about Helping Others. This facilitator guide contains all of the page-by-page content of the group guide with facilitator notes in shaded boxes in appropriate areas of the text to help guide the facilitator in leading the discussion. There is very little additional preparation time needed because of the structure provided, the notes, and the specially-designed questions to get the discussion going.
