History of the Preservation Society of Newport RI

The Preservation Society of Newport RI was founded in 1945 during a period when many historic buildings in Newport were threatened by neglect or demolition. The society emerged from a collective effort by local citizens and preservationists who recognized the importance of safeguarding Newport's unique architectural legacy. The early years focused on acquiring and restoring key Gilded Age mansions that exemplify the city's prominence as a summer retreat for America's wealthiest families. Over the decades, the society has expanded its portfolio and influence, becoming a nationally recognized leader in historic preservation.

Founding and Early Efforts

Initially, the society concentrated on preventing the destruction of iconic estates such as The Breakers, which was saved from potential demolition. Early fundraising campaigns and advocacy brought attention to the value of preserving Newport's cultural assets. These efforts established a framework for future conservation projects and set standards for historic restoration practices.

Growth and Development

Throughout the latter half of the 20th century, the Preservation Society of Newport RI grew its collection of properties and enhanced its educational outreach. The society also developed partnerships with local government and national preservation organizations, ensuring broader support and funding to maintain the historic sites. Today, it manages more than 20 historic properties, maintaining them as living museums.

Mission and Goals

The core mission of the Preservation Society of Newport RI is to protect, preserve, and interpret Newport's historic architecture and cultural heritage. The society aims to foster public appreciation for the city's unique history and to promote responsible stewardship of its architectural treasures. Key goals include maintaining the structural and aesthetic integrity of historic properties, providing educational resources, and encouraging community involvement.

Preservation and Conservation

The society prioritizes the careful restoration and ongoing maintenance of historic buildings, ensuring that original design elements, materials, and craftsmanship are preserved. This commitment involves employing expert artisans and adhering to best practices in conservation science.

Public Engagement and Education

Engaging the public through tours, exhibitions, lectures, and school programs is central to the society's objectives. These initiatives encourage a deeper understanding of the historical context and architectural significance of Newport's landmarks, inspiring future generations to value heritage preservation.

Notable Properties and Mansions

The Preservation Society of Newport RI oversees an impressive collection of historic estates and gardens that showcase the grandeur of Newport's past. These properties serve as prime examples of American architectural styles from the Colonial period through the Gilded Age. Each mansion offers visitors a glimpse into the lifestyles of prominent families and the artistic achievements of the era.

The Breakers

Arguably the most famous property under the society's care, The Breakers is a 70-room mansion built for the Vanderbilt family in the late 19th century. Designed in the Italian Renaissance style, it epitomizes the opulence of Newport's summer "cottages." The estate features lavish interiors, extensive gardens, and breathtaking ocean views.

Marble House

Another architectural gem, Marble House was constructed for Alva and William K. Vanderbilt. It is renowned for its Beaux-Arts design and extensive use of marble throughout the structure. The mansion integrates European influences with American innovation, illustrating the wealth and social ambitions of its original owners.

Other Significant Estates

- Rosecliff – A grand mansion known for its stunning ballroom and use as a setting in multiple films.
- Chateau-sur-Mer – A Victorian-era estate showcasing early Newport summer home architecture.
- Isaac Bell House – An example of Shingle Style architecture with unique design elements.

Educational and Community Programs

The Preservation Society of Newport RI offers a variety of educational programs tailored to diverse audiences, including students, scholars, and the general public. These programs are designed to deepen knowledge about historic preservation, architecture, and local history while fostering community involvement.

Guided Tours and Lectures

Daily guided tours provide comprehensive insights into the architectural features, historical contexts, and personal stories associated with each property. Regular lectures by historians and preservation experts further enrich visitor understanding.

School and Youth Programs

Educational initiatives for schools include curriculum-based tours, workshops, and interactive activities that align with state education standards. These programs aim to cultivate an early appreciation for cultural heritage and preservation careers.

Volunteer and Membership Opportunities

The society encourages community participation through volunteer programs and membership benefits. Volunteers assist with tours, events, and preservation efforts, while members receive exclusive access to special events and publications.

Visiting the Preservation Society of Newport RI

Visiting the Preservation Society of Newport RI offers an enriching experience that combines history, architecture, and scenic beauty. The society's properties are open to the public seasonally and feature well-organized tours and visitor amenities.

Tour Options and Hours

Visitors can select from a variety of tours, including self-guided audio tours, guided group tours, and specialized thematic tours focusing on architecture, gardens, or social history. Operating hours vary by season and property, with peak visitation during spring through fall.

Visitor Facilities

The society provides amenities such as gift shops, parking, and accessibility accommodations to enhance the visitor experience. Educational materials and brochures are available to supplement tours, and staff members are on hand to assist with inquiries.

Special Events and Exhibitions

Throughout the year, the Preservation Society of Newport RI hosts special events such as garden parties, holiday celebrations, and temporary exhibitions that highlight specific aspects of Newport's heritage. These events attract both locals and tourists, offering unique opportunities to engage with history in a festive atmosphere.

Both books in Donna Russo Morin's 'Newport's Gilded Age', a series of historical fiction, now available in one volume! Gilded Summers: Pearl and Ginevra grow up in the era known as the Gilded Age in Newport, Rhode Island. Surrounded by Astors and Vanderbilts, Pearl fills her days with teatime and shallow friendships, yearning for something more. A chance meeting with Mary Cassatt sparks her secret desire to be an artist. Meanwhile Ginevra, fresh off the boat from Italy, finds her own dreams out of reach as she joins the unwelcoming household as a servant and seamstress. The girls become fast friends, but must keep their friendship hidden from Pearl's controlling mother. Soon, the two young women must decide who they want to be in this world, and survive what it takes to get there...even if it includes murder. Gilded Dreams: The battle for the vote is on fire in America. The powerful and rich women of Newport, Rhode Island nearly single-handedly funded the major suffrage parties. Yet they have been left out of history, tossed aside as mere socialites. Pearl and Ginevra are college graduates, professional women, wives, and mothers. The two progressive women have fought their way through some of life's harshest challenges. Now they set their sights on the vote, the epitome of all they have struggled for, the embodiment of their dreams. From the sinking of the Titanic, through World War 1, Pearl and Ginevra are once more put to the test.

preservation society of newport ri: A Guide to Newport's Cliff Walk Ed Morris, 2010-12-03
A revealing tour of the opulent Newport Mansions where the Astors, Vanderbilts, and other Gilded Age families spent their summers. At the turn of the twentieth century, the wealthy families of New York would vacation at their summer homes in Newport, Rhode Island. Where the salty air once mingled with the laughter of society women in ball gowns, the houses of the Newport Cliff Walk still preside in grandeur over the crashing waves below. From the grand majesty of the Breakers to the beautiful proportions of Rosecliff, these houses are enduring reminders of the architectural flowering of the Gilded Age. Walking along the paved trail, it's easy to imagine the faintest hint of a waltz coming from the windows of Beechwood, or to envision the Duchess of Windsor's carriage arriving for a visit at Fairholme. Ed Morris takes you on a tour of twenty-four historic mansions and landmarks, entertaining along the way with tales of splendor and style, social maneuvering and matchmaking.

He defines architecture as a continuing dialogue between generations which creates an environment across time. This definitive survey extends beyond the cities themselves to the American scene as a whole, which has inspired the reasonable balanced, closed and ordered forms, and above all the probity, that he feels typifies American architecture.

location on the periphery of the action, the hospital has remained a footnote to the dramatic sweep of Civil War literature. However, its history and the experiences of the doctors, nurses, patients and guards that gave it life provide a new perspective on the interaction between the army and society in wartime and on life in Civil War America. This in-depth account also explores the barbarities of medicine, daily routine in a general army hospital, the role of citizens in providing aid, the later adventures of former patients and staff, and the final resting places of those who died on the grounds.

preservation society of newport ri: Legendary Locals of Newport Annie Sherman, 2013 Established by Colonials seeking religious and cultural freedom in 1639, Newport has enjoyed nearly four centuries of growth--from a thriving seaport to a summer hideaway for industrial revolution excesses, from an active Navy town to a modern world-class destination for sailing and tourism. But beyond the marbled mansions and active harbor-front wharves lie legendary locals building a city of living history, education, arts, and philanthropy. And as this City-by-the-Sea celebrates 375 years in 2014, residents honor the diversity of the people who keep it flourishing. Stone carvers John Fud Benson and son Nick utilize time-honored techniques etching gravestones and memorials by hand in the oldest trade shop in the country, while nearby, the largest high-tech megayachts in the world dock at the Dana family's Newport Shipyard. Newporter and Navy SEAL Terry Moy helped the last Apollo mission land safely back on Earth, while advocate Florence Gray helped keep affordable housing residents grounded only a few blocks from the city's upscale neighborhoods.
