prepscholar sat practice tests: Making Black Girls Count in Math Education Nicole M. Joseph, 2022-08-16 Making Black Girls Count in Math Education explores the experiences of Black girls and women in mathematics from preschool to graduate school, deftly probing race and gender inequity in STEM fields. Nicole M. Joseph investigates factors that contribute to the glaring underrepresentation of Black female students in the mathematics pipeline. Joseph's unflinching account calls attention to educational structures and practices that contribute to race- and gender-based stratification in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics disciplines. The author also disentangles a complex network of historical and sociopolitical elements that influence the perception and experiences of Black girls and women both inside and outside of mathematics education. In her clear-eyed assessment of the intersectional difficulties facing this marginalized group, Joseph offers a critical view of the existing mathematics education research, practice, and policies that have neglected Black girls and women; confronts the problematic history of mathematics education policy; and considers imbalances in the current teacher workforce in US mathematics programs. She then provides practical, actionable suggestions for reform. Joseph invites students, families, and educators, as well as researchers, policy makers, and other relevant stakeholders to disrupt systems, structures, and ideologies. She calls for an end to racism and sexism in many areas of mathematics education, including learning environments, curriculum design and implementation, and testing and assessments. An essential read for anyone concerned about supporting the mathematical learning and development of Black girls and women, this work advocates for coalition-building so that greater, more equitable opportunities for learning and engagement may be offered to Black female students.

prepscholar sat practice tests: Pensare senza parole Temple Grandin, Betsy Lerner, 2025-08-29T00:00:00+02:00 Se Temple Grandin non ha potuto accedere alla facoltà di Veterinaria è a causa delle gravi carenze in matematica: il suo modo di pensare per immagini – correlato al disturbo dello spettro autistico – le rende infatti difficile maneggiare concetti astratti quali i numeri. La sua particolare «forma mentis», riconosciuta e sviluppata grazie ai corsi pratici un tempo offerti dalle scuole, le ha tuttavia permesso di diventare una stimata progettista di macchinari zootecnici, nonché un'autorevole esperta di comportamento animale – materia che, paradossalmente, oggi insegna proprio agli aspiranti veterinari. L'attrito fra il funzionamento del suo cervello e il mondo circostante, avvertito sin dalla più tenera età, l'ha convinta che noi umani abbiamo «modi diversi di pensare»: al pensiero verbale – sequenziale e fondato sul linguaggio – si oppone infatti, in un «continuum» di gradazioni intermedie, un pensiero visivo che procede per immagini, e che il sistema educativo e il mondo del lavoro sempre più spesso stentano a valorizzare. Intrecciando illuminanti aneddoti storici – fra i pensatori visivi si annoverano molti degli uomini più geniali d'ogni epoca, da Michelangelo a Einstein fino a Steve Jobs –, esperienze personali ed evidenze tratte dai più recenti studi neuroscientifici, Grandin ci offre un'affascinante analisi di queste divergenti forme di pensiero, e insieme lancia alla società un severo monito, affinché impari a scorgere in menti differenti «non una disabilità ma una risorsa» e non si lasci sfuggire un'irrinunciabile opportunità di arricchimento.
